President's Letter

Dear Reader,

Hello!

Contained in this packet are the list of events our chapter has completed over the past year. Currently at about 400 members strong, both the size of membership and activities over the past several years has increased dramatically. With regards to activities, the California Alpha chapter interacts with other student organizations in campus-wide events, as well as conducts its own endeavors, such as outreach and community service. Community outreach is an important part of an honor society, as it is the duty of those who have excelled in academics to act in an unselfish manner to promote the education and academic interest of others. For this and other reasons, the participation of members in tutoring and outreach programs is highly stressed. The California Alpha chapter offers free tutoring services for all engineering students in lower and upper division engineering classes. Members are also involved with the Student Outreach program in which groups of 4-5 Tau Bates go to a local grade school once a week to teach basic science and engineering principles through fun and exciting experiments.

The California Alpha chapter seeks to advance all the disciplines of engineering, and in the process, increase the visibility and recognition of Tau Beta Pi on the UC Berkeley campus. Through the tutoring and outreach programs, as well as Tau Beta Pi sponsored engineering workshops and activities, it is the hope of this chapter to encourage the “distinguished scholarship”, “exemplary character”, and “unselfish activity” that is the basis of the founding of Tau Beta Pi as an honor society.

As members of Tau Beta Pi, we are given the opportunity to join an organization so passionate about helping the community and strengthening not only ourselves but each other.

Sincerely,

Ariel Zelmanowitz Plantz
Tau Beta Pi, California Alpha
President, Spring 2019

Description

We hung out in the O'Brien breezeway from 10-3pm with bagels so candidates could fill out their forms to join TBP.

Purpose

Candidates came and turned in waivers and forms to accept their invitation to join TBP. We also collected the first round of candidate dues.

Organization

Set up took around 2 people. We needed to bring the juice, tables, and extra candidate packets from the office about a half hour before the event. We also had one person go to King Pin and one person go to Noah's for donuts and bagels.

Cost

around $50 for food and juice

Problems

Last minute planning who was going to pick up the food was a bit of a problem.

Results

We had 50 candidates show up through out the day to turn in their paperwork.

Participants

- Officers: Neel Raman, Christopher Mitchell, James Dongmin Lee, Cuong Luu, Danny Chu, Garrett Go, Danny Geitheim, Ariel Zelmanowitz Plantz, Amanda Awan, Lucio Tang, Neehar Duvvuri, Angela Hou, Albert Qian, Jarrod Hsu, Rachel Li, Richard Lin, Sunny Chen

Description

Inter-house social between Kastoras and Bodi held at TeaOne Cory before GM.

Purpose

Candidates meeting and socializing with officers, getting started on their candidate packets/candidate quizzes and officer challenges, having a good time and drinking PMT.

Organization

Rachel and I planned the time and date of the event a few weeks in advance to coincide with GM so that hopefully more candidates would come. We advertised it on the website and in candidate emails. Angela and I baked banana bread the day before to bring and share with attendees. Rachel arrived early and staked out a table, and I showed up a bit later after class. When more people showed up, we pushed two adjacent tables together for more seating room.

Cost

Free

Problems

Too many people showed up to fit at one table, so there were a couple separate groups that didn't really interact. At the beginning there wasn't much socializing and everyone was just working on their laptops. Also, TeaOne closed (and the event ended) half an hour before GM was supposed to start, so some candidates were kind of annoyed/confused about what to do with that awkward gap of time.

Results

There was decent attendance and most candidates (and officers) seemed to have had a good time. Several of them made good progress on their requirements or had fruitful conversations with officers/other candidates. No officers came except exec and house leaders, but most people who came stayed for most or all of the time. Most people said they liked the banana bread, even though Garrett apparently described it as "uncomfortably okay". Overall definitely a successful event :)

Description

Met at Memorial Stadium and waited about 15 minutes for people to show up. Hiked up the fire trails to a vista point, then back down to Southside while listening to music and conversing.

Purpose

To get exercise, have fun, enjoy the great outdoors, and facilitate candidate-officer interaction.

Organization

Decided on a date and time and few weeks in advance. Created event on TBP calendar and included it in candidate email/group chat reminders. Decided to follow same route as previous hike events.

Cost

Free

Problems

Only two officers and one candidate showed up :( we waited ~15 minutes for the last person who signed up but they never showed (most other people who had signed up un-signed up beforehand). The entire hike was kind of awkward due to the low attendance but I don't think it was too bad (not sure how the candidate felt though). We got lost/confused a couple times on the hike but ultimately found our way thanks to Google maps. The trail was steep and slippery at points but thankfully there were no accidents.

Results

It was decently fun and served its purpose but it was definitely not the most lit event of all time :// Some suggested a morning hike would have been better attended than during mid-afternoon so maybe that should be a consideration for next time.

Description

Scary movie night for Bodi and Skylos officers and candidates (and anyone else who wanted to come). Snacks provided.

Purpose

Have fun, socialize, eat snacks, and celebrate Halloween by watching a scary movie.

Organization

Collin and I planned the date, time, and location several weeks in advance. We decided on a movie but later changed it because Neel objected to the original decision. I booked the room and bought popcorn, and Collin took care of procuring the movie and bringing a computer to watch it on. Collin arrived early to set up the projector and his computer. Collin brought tortilla chips and candy, and I brought cookies and popcorn.

Cost

Free

Problems

Not very many people showed up, and only a couple people stayed the whole time. Some people left because the movie was too scary, and some people might also not have come because of that. The sound system on the projector wasn't very good, so we probably should have brought speakers. We put the food in the middle of the room which turned out to be a bad decision because then people had to walk in front of viewers in order to access it, so putting it at the back would have been smarter.

Results

It was a fun event, and relatively low effort, but it would have been better if more people showed up. I think people were happy with the snacks, but I think a different movie might have been better. It's okay though because Halloween.

Description

Bodi house social event over dinner at La Val's.

Purpose

Facilitate socializing between Bodi candidates and officers (and others) in a more casual setting; eat dinner.

Organization

I picked the date, time, and location a couple weeks in advance in order to avoid conflicts with other events like Light Painting and OHP on the preceding and following days, respectively. I also tried to avoid class conflicts for people who might have had 6:30-8pm classes. I printed some coupons from the La Val's website in Cory directly beforehand in case people wanted a deal.

Cost

Free for TBP; ~$10/person who ordered food at La Val's.

Problems

Not many candidates (or Bodi officers) showed up due to midterms and possibly location or timing ? A couple of candidates who signed up didn't end up coming :(

Results

I think the event went pretty well overall. There were enough people that it wasn't super awkward, but it would have been nicer if more people came. It was probably not a great idea to hold this event during midterm season, or at least on a weekday. I think everyone who came had a good time and we all got to know each other better, which was nice. I'm not sure if everyone enjoyed the food, though; maybe I should have considered other locations.

Description

5-hour group study/socializing session with snacks.

Purpose

Last chance for candidates to get their house/elective event requirement done and to study/socialize/snack together with officers.

Organization

I coordinated with Angela when she could help me run/attend the event, and when her bent buddies (who needed the event to fulfill their house requirement) could make it. I didn't want to make the event right before house cup or Thanksgiving break, which meant it had to be during the last week of instruction, which turned out to be smart because school ended up being cancelled due to poor air quality. I booked the room several weeks in advance, not wanting to wait until the day/week before to try to get a room in Moffitt. I brought some snacks from home and asked the VPs if I could also use their leftover snacks from Packet Turn-in 2 the day before. On the day of the event, I went to Cory early to pick up the room key, only to find that it was combination-locked and didn't require one, contrary to the info on the website. I asked Angela to go start the event after her class while I fetched the VPs' snacks from the office on my way from class in Dwinelle.

Cost

~$10 for snacks provided by me; I don't know how much the VPs spent on their snacks or whether or not they were charged to TBP.

Problems

The room ended up being on the small side, as it was supposed to accommodate 10-12 people and I originally figured that as a house event no more than 6 people would be there at once. However, as it was expanded to everyone, there were about 10 people at one point, which fit but was a bit cramped at the table. Also the room was a bit warm and stuffy, but not unbearable. I was concerned that the room's location on third floor Cory might be inaccessible to some, but people seemed able to get in fine. However, several people were confused about the event's location despite it being listed on the website, so that maybe could have been publicized more.

Results

It was a pretty fun time and decently well-attended. Some people got a good amount of work done, while others did not. I think everyone found something to like within the diverse array of snacks.

Description

An election for all the officer positions for Spring 2019. The first half of elections were done on executive committee members (President, VPs, RSec) and chairs, the latter half was done on committee officer positions. Any changes in the number of officer positions were also voted upon.

Purpose

The purpose of the event is to elect next semester's officers.

Organization

HP was reserved in advance. Pizza was ordered at the event.

Cost

Around $80 was spent on 5 pizzas, breadsticks, and chicken poppers from Papa Johns.

Problems

Not all of the officer positions got filled, but turnout was still pretty good. Also many people chose to run in absentia (possibly because the Big Game was happening at the same time). But overall, there were no significant problems.

Results

Overall, the event went well.

Description

Meeting where bigs and littles met each other!

Purpose

Reveal of bigs and littles, so that participants can meet and connect on social media / make plans for the semester.

Organization

Gauged interest among candidates at PTI1. Added officers to a slack channel if they were interested in being bigs, and encouraged them to find a co-big. After the deadline for the candidate interest form, we asked bigs to indicate interest in certain candidates, and then I assigned formal pairs based on who the bigs wanted, whether the personalities of the candidates matched, and whether the bigs would be able to match energy and personality with the candidates.

Cost

pizza ~100, also shared with the smash tourney that happened right after.

Problems

need a hard deadline for officers to indicate interest, and then have the VP decide all the pairings. Do not let other officers make you redo the spreadsheet, but also be fair when assigning littles. It's extremely frustrating to have to do redo assignments when other officers give input, because there's no way to please everyone. Listen to what you think is best, but be reasonable.

Results

Pairs seem to get along well!

Description

Photoshoot including both professional and non-professional photos. We moved between the Campanile, Hearst Mining Building, and LeConte Hall.

Purpose

The photoshoot was intended primarily for the candidates to get their photos taken, especially to get headshots for things like LinkedIn and Facebook.

Organization

Jason, Danny, and Vincent met up about 30 minutes before the event to scope out good photo locations and set up camera equipment. Jason primarily focused on taking individual headshots while Danny and Vincent took some headshots and other general photos.

Cost

Free

Problems

It was difficult for people to find us as we moved around a fair amount. We sent out an email to the people who signed up with our expected locations but some people who didn't sign up came, so we had to tell them individually where to find us. Jason had the best camera and lens for taking headshots so some candidates had to wait to get their photos taken with it.

Results

We were happy with the attendance as we had a fair number of both officers and candidates attend. Some of the candidates who signed up did not show up to the event. Since we planned the event right before the Bent Buddies Meetup, there were a lot of people (primarily officers) who went to the later part of the photoshoot and then headed straight to the meeting after, so this worked out well. Moving to multiple locations was ideal for getting better photos but made it difficult logistically as we had to make sure that people could still find us.

Description

We took long exposure photos in the dark with light sticks and string lights.

Purpose

Fun event to take pictures with shapes and words spelled out with the lights

Organization

We arrived about 20 minutes early to set up the two tripods and cameras. We brought a few different cameras and lenses to test out. We decided what supplies we needed a couple weeks before the event and had to order new glow sticks and lights because the foam glow sticks in the office were old and almost out of battery.

Cost

$20.75 for the glow sticks and $5.99 for the string lights — within our $30 budget for the event. These materials can be used in future semesters and should work better than the previous ones that were in the office.

Problems

There were a lot of people at the event and it was sometimes difficult to come up with something for everyone to do. We experimented with the steel wool but the old steel wool in the office doesn't work very well and we couldn't get it to stay lit.

Results

It was very successful overall! People enjoyed taking photos with the string lights and it was great that we had enough people to spell out "Tau Beta Pi" fully. The new glow sticks worked well.

Photoshoot for graduating TBP members

Purpose

Take photos for the graduating seniors to commemorate their time in TBP

Organization

Got there 30 minutes early to plan out good spots. Three historians were there to take pictures jv

Cost

No cost

Problems

There were a lot of people on campus also taking grad photos so we had to wait sometimes for extremely good spots to open up.

Results

Lots of photos taken (over 3000) so there should be a lot of quality ones to send out. Historians still need to look through and edit some. Not an amazing turnout but there are also quite a few of seniors officers this year.

Description

Second round of elections and new-old officer mixer/meeting

Purpose

Fill remaining officer positions; get new officers oriented & familiar with resources and fellow officers; socialize.

Organization

I sent out a when2meet to determine the time of the meeting. Once a sufficient number of people had responded, I decided on a time and booked an available room (310 soda). I made slides and generated resources like the om when2meet and anon feedback form. I baked some carrot cake for the meeting and also brought some leftover chips from finals study room over to the room from the office.

Cost

No direct cost to TBP, but some of the snacks were paid for by StARs for their Finals Study Room events.

Problems

Nobody ran for historian rip :( also the games/act situation was kind of a mess. The email instructions I got from the wiki were outdated so people were struggling trying to set it up. It was hard to coordinate and keep things interesting for everyone.

Results

Everyone who ran for a position got elected to it. All officers in attendance were able to get on slack and I think set up their emails too. Everyone's introductions allowed people to start to become familiar with other officers, but not all officers (esp. returning ones) showed up unfortunately.

Participants

- Officers: Eric Hu, Garrett Go, Ariel Zelmanowitz Plantz, Quentin Allen Delepine, Albert Qian, Owen Voorhees, Jarrod Hsu, Sung Bin Roh, Rachel Li, Reini Lin, Leon Xu, Syed Mohammad Shahzar Rizvi, Daniel Campbell, Chad Joseph Wakamiya, Andrew Z Wang, Arnav Raha, Divija Bhimaraju, Akash Velu, Frank Wang, Jacklin Henry Smith

Description

Are you interested in learning how you can gain a competitive edge in a business environment as an engineer? Come hear Yale MBA, ex-Google, and Co-Founder at Jobwell.co, Daniel Kent, talk about the business principles that you can use to expand your knowledge, approach a career in business, or explore your interests! Dan gave a powerpoint presentation on Business frameworks.

Purpose

To teach about business principles and frameworks for analyzing companies and business problems. Give engineers a breadth of knowledge to utilize in interviews or daily life.

Organization

Delivered pizza from Papa Johns before the event. Came on time. Not much set up needed. Had to get plates and napkins from TBP office. Boxes threw away in dumpster.

Cost

$98 for 7 large pizzas and 3 sides from Papa Johns

Problems

Needed plates and napkins from office since it wasn't given with delivery.

Results

Not lot of people turned out but it was an enjoyable event! People who attended seemed to have fun.

Description

Students arrive at Hearst Mining Circle, dropped off their luggage. Prof Lee Bernstein (NucE) gave an intro keynote. Had Sliver for dinner. Made CD-balloon hovercrafts with Theta Tau. Students stayed with undergraduate hosts. Got breakfast from Costco. In HP auditorium, Anita gave an introduction to the day/overview of engineering – twenty minutes. Kathy Barrett and Djenilin Mallari, ESS and admissions respectively – half an hour. Short break. Student panel – one hour. Left HP auditorium, did campus tours – 1 hour. Lunch, from stuff-in. Lab tour rotation – machine shop, autolab, and Biomolecular Nanotechnology Center (BNC). Students checked out and went home.

Purpose

To introduce high school students to engineering, and encourage them to study it in college by giving an insider look at Berkeley Engineering.

Organization

- About 5-7 volunteers showed up for sign-in on Friday at the table with the TBP banner.

- The 4 committee members attended the event the entire time, helping everything run smoothly.
- We had 11 hosts.
- After meals we did brief clean-ups as well as asking students to throw away their own trash.
- We had a spreadsheet to manage everything which had Food, Hosts, Volunteers, Lab Tours, and Student Check-in/Check-out tabs

Cost

Rooms: $0 Small gifts for speakers/hosts: $200 Engineering activity: $0 Food: $600 TOTAL: $800

Problems

- Need better attendance of students from underprivileged high schools and students from minority backgrounds.
- Emails were sent to spam.
- Many high schoolers who signed up did not respond and confirm their spot, creating a last-minute waitlist shuffle.
- 25 minutes was too long for lab tours.
- Students showed up late which cut into professor keynote.
- Volunteer sign-up was not streamlined.
- Due to smoky weather, found an indoor lunch spot at the last minute.
- Student panel was 100% male

Results

- 21 students got an insider look at Berkeley engineering by staying with undergraduate hosts, talking to other current students, and seeing campus and several labs.
- Lee Bernstein is interested in future collaborations. In particular he is very interested in giving tours of his lab (he has a lab in LBNL/works on the cyclotron, and possibly one on campus too).

Description

Every semester we have a retreat for officers/members to get to know each other better in a non-academic environment. This semester we went to Santa Cruz for the three-day weekend. On Saturday we went to the main beach/boardwalk and on Sunday people were given the option to do whatever they wanted.

Purpose

The purpose of the event is to facilitate bonding between officers/get to know offices better without worrying about school.

Organization

Organization done by the president: Determine dates/location/cabin. This was primarily done by sending a poll over the summer to see where people wanted to go (between Santa Cruz, Lake Tahoe, and Yosemite) and then sending a subsequent poll to see which cabin people wanted (cheaper but smaller or larger but more expensive). Cabins/vacation houses were looked for on VRBO, Vacasa, and AirBnB. The house we ended up choosing was from AirBnB. Invite officers/members/alumni Determine attendee leaving times/dietary restrictions. Assign retreat rides and deal with the ride shuffling that occurs (as people realize that they can only leave later that day or can't go to retreat at all). Coordinate car rentals. Assign one car to go to Costco, preferably with Activity committee members within. During retreat, deal with all the issues that come up.

Cost

The total cost was around $3500 ($2200 for the cabin, $700 for food and around $600 for two rental cars and gas reimbursements). The cost was driven up by needing two rental cars (fewer officers this semester had cars they could drive), getting more food than we needed, and by some officers backing out of retreat kind of last minute, after we already booked a van rental when a sedan would have been sufficient.

Problems

There weren't any particularly bad problems during retreat. People backing out of retreat a few days before the event and us only having two officers with cars was unfortunate, but mostly out of our control. Further, we can do a better job in the future of making sure we don't get too much extra food. Lastly, Sunday was a bit unorganized because there wasn't one activity that everyone wanted to do, but it might have been better to pick some activity anyway (like a hike).

Results

Outside of the lack of an organized activity on Sunday, I think most officers enjoyed their time at retreat and that the event was a success overall.

Chocolate chip and sugar cookies were purchased from Safeway and distributed to students taking midterm exams for Physics 7A, an engineering prerequisite.

Purpose

The purpose is to help students feel good about themselves after an exam.

Organization

Two officers purchased the cookies from Safeway the weekend before the exam. They were stored in the TBP office. Three officers then retrieved them thirty minutes before the end of the test and distributed them to students leaving until all cookies were gone.

Cost

The cookies cost $20 in total.

Problems

We could perhaps purchase more cookies so as to distribute more cookies, since we usually don't get enough cookies for more than a third of the students leaving an exam.

Description

Big Social 1 was the first big event of the candidate semester.

After taking the bus to Tilden Park from Li Ka Shing, candidates participated in icebreakers with their houses, then played Scattergories (board game brought by VP) against other houses for a bit while the other activities were being set up. Because some houses had few people, for the board game we combined houses to make 2 teams.

The candidates then participated in a photo scavenger hunt where candidates split into their houses and took pictures of various tasks given to them as well as tasks found in plastic eggs hidden around the park.

Lunch was served afterwards which was the sandwiches and chips.

Purpose

For candidates to socialize with each other and some officers. This was also the first opportunity for candidates to meet the people in their houses.

Organization

Events planning was done by VP. We took the bus to Tilden the night before to make sure we knew which route and which bus stop to use. We found that the 67 goes straight to the Tilden Nature Area, but only on weekends.

Food was bought the night before at Costco. Organized by Logistics.

Cost

Food: $174

Problems

There was high fire danger at Tilden (maybe CA in general), and so the barbecues had signs over them saying that they couldn't be used. Luckily we discovered this the night before BS1 when we were exploring Tilden, and the food had not been purchased by Logistics yet and so instead of the usual barbecue food they bought sandwich ingredients.

Additionally, when we went the night before to explore Tilden and find a good location (this was because neither VP had been to a Tilden BS1) the bus did not take us into the park, since it only goes directly to the park on weekends.

Results

The event went well. Maybe it would have been good to have more of the time allocated for just hanging out/socializing/passing the soccer ball and football around, since at the end when people were doing that it seemed fun and lively.

Description

Members from multiple societies gathered together to carve miniature pumpkins and enjoy holiday-themed snacks.

Purpose

To promote a sense of community and bonding both between candidates and between members of other engineering honor societies.

Organization

Most of the organization was done by SWE. Each of the participating organizations was tasked to bring 2-3 items, ranging from 50-ish mini-pumpkins, carving tools, tablecloths, napkins, apple cider, fall-themed cookies, etc. SWE booked 290 HMMB for the event, and carving tools were set up on the tablecloths for use. As candidates came in, they took a pumpkin for carving and food from the table nearby. Cleanup was expedited due to the tablecloths set up earlier.

Cost

No cost. TBP was tasked with bringing tablecloths and napkins, which were supplied individually with no cost to TBP itself.

Problems

No real issues. Lighting the finished pumpkins was eventually moved to outside HMMB in fear of the fire alarm within the room.

Results

Overall a success. Although few people from TBP attended, for those who did attend, it seemed that everyone had fun and bonded with other people present.

Cost

Description

At this event, we had short presentations from each committee to give the candidates more information about TBP, reminded candidates about requirements and upcoming events, showed them the house standings, listened to a talk about ethics in engineering from Professor David Sedlak, and then had dinner.

Purpose

The purpose of the event is to remind candidates about requirements and give them more opportunities to interact with each other. Additionally, we wanted candidates to learn more about the committees so that they might join one next semester.

Organization

Organization involved booking HP and preparing slides ahead of time. Also emailing professors about leading a discussion on a topic of their choosing.

Cost

Professional photoshoot at multiple locations around campus, including the Campanile, Doe Library, and Hearst Memorial Mining Building. Includes both group and individual photos.

Purpose

To allow candidates to get fun pictures of themselves as well as allow for professional headshots and profile pictures (eg LinkedIn, Facebook)

Organization

Description

Board Game Night was combined with Bent Buddies for a fun night of Uno, Avalon, and Memes.

Purpose

Bonding among TBP officers and candidates.

Organization

Laura and Neel ordered Pizza I reserved a room, but it was not used

Cost

$119 for both Bent Buddies and Board Game Night

Problems

No problems

Results

All went well

Description

Revealed candidates to their officer mentors. Ate pizza and played a game when each candidate with the same officer had the same song. They had to hum it to each other to find their bent buddies and officer.

Purpose

To let candidates meet their mentors for the first time.

Organization

Eric from projects organized the activity. We ordered Papa John's

Cost

$60 for pizza

Problems

The reveal activity wasn't great because many of the candidates didn't know their song. Many buddies and officers also didn't show up

Results

Candidates met their officers and had time to exchange contact info and start to get to know each other.

Description

Arrived at 9 AM to the Exploratorium and given a quick tour. After that we cleaned out exhibits till 10:45 and were given a more extensive tour of exhibits by Stan Volin and headed out around noon.

Purpose

Community service project and event requirement for candidates.

Organization

Emailed volunteer@exploratorium and planned the date and time of the event. Beyond that, emailed candidates with information about how to be prepared for cleaning at the event. Lastly, arrived at event on time.

Cost

Description

This event was another opportunity for candidates to interact with their houses and have some more fun. The activity was a “Create a Symphony” game that involved building instruments with miscellaneous resources.

Purpose

The point of this event is to facilitate bonding/interaction between candidates in each house and between candidates and officers.

Organization

Organization involved reserving the room in Cory, setting the tables up for the activities, ordering pizza and drinks, and cleaning afterwards.

Cost

Pizza: $78

Problems

It was pretty hard to actually make instruments that could make sounds that were nice.

Results

The event went well, but it was a bit of a long time for people to be building things given that they couldn't actually really build instruments. Participation was pretty good, though.

Description

Candidates come to polish the Bent and eat bagels and donuts. Also used event to collect candidate quizzes and check candidate progress. Replaced Packet Turn in 2 from previous semesters.

Purpose

Make sure candidates are on track to initiate and to make the bent shiny!

Organization

Someone went to buy juice and cream cheese the weekend prior to the event. The morning of, two people picked up two dozen bagels from noah’s and two dozen donuts from kingpin. One of the VP’s was there for the entire event to check requirements, except for the last hour.

Cost

Donuts and Bagels were collectively around $40, with the cream cheese and juice for both bent polishings adding up to another $40.

Problems

The candidates were not well instructed on how to polish the bent so a lot of polish ended up drying on the statue and was hard to remove. Also, we should probably bring hand sanitizer to future bent polishings so that candidates don't have to eat with dirty hands or run to find a bathroom before eating after polishing.

Results

The event was overall successful with a number of candidates coming by to drop off their quizzes early as opposed to at the next bent polishing. The bent also looked nice and shiny afterwards.

Description

This event provides candidates another opportunity to interact with their house.

We did 4 activities in/around Soda and Cory Hall in rotations. One was a telephone charades game where the house stands in a line, the last person receives a word/phrase and acts it out to the person in front of them, who in turn acts it out to the next person, and so on until the person in the front sees the acting and guesses what the original word/phrase was. Another activity was 2-person-blind-Mario-Kart, where houses break into pairs of two, each having a driver who controls but can't see the course and a guide who can see the course and must instruct the driver on where to drive. Another activity was pictionary (I think) and another was the "Guess the song" game that we frequently do.

The last challenge was not done as a rotation but with all the houses together, and it was a puzzle race.

Lastly there was pizza.

Purpose

The purpose of the event is to facilitate bonding/interaction among candidates and between candidates and officers.

Organization

We planned the activities in advance, choosing some that we have done in past semesters and also bringing some new ones to replace games that we didn't want to include this semester.

Cost

$292.66 for 14 normal + 1 vegan Slivers pizza. There were 4 pizzas left over.

Problems

We had trouble getting officers to volunteer for rotations.

Results

T'was good.

At this event, candidates polish the bent we have on campus.

Purpose

The purpose of the event is to make the bent shinier and to give candidates more opportunities to talk to each other and to officers.

Description

Escape room event at Escape Oakland in downtown Oakland. Split into two groups of 5-6 to work together to solve puzzles to escape a room with a time limit of one hour.

Purpose

To allow candidates and officers to work together, have fun, and get to know each other better.

Organization

I first researched different escape room venues in the area and narrowed it down to two: Escape Oakland and Omescape in Richmond. Omescape was much too expensive, while Escape Oakland was decently priced, so I went ahead with the latter. I planned the event for the Monday after Veteran's day when there was no school because they don't allow private groups to come on weekends or Thursday/Friday afternoons, and I didn't want to put it on a random weekday for fear of low attendance. I made a reservation about a month in advance but about a week prior to the date I changed the reservation to a couple hours earlier in order to combine the event with StARs' dim sum event, which would hopefully increase attendance. I also was not credited with the advertised student discount initially and had to email them directly to follow up about it. I had originally planned to leave dim sum early to go back to Berkeley and pick up anyone who wanted to go to escape room but not dim sum, but ended up not doing that because the only person who signed up for escape room but didn't come to dim sum slept in too late to come to escape room. The escape room location was only about five blocks from the dim sum restaurant, so I coordinated with Thomas to time the events appropriately and allocate travel time between the two locations.

Cost

The original cost was $325, so with the 15% student discount it was $276.25. I was going to charge everyone $10 so with 12 attendees the total cost to TBP would be $156.25 and the total cost to attendees would be $120. However, since there were only 11 attendees, and because dim sum was much more expensive than anticipated, I asked Neel to appropriate some of Sean's unused Fenton's budget to lower the cost for attendees to $8. Therefore, the total cost to TBP was $188.25, and the total cost to attendees was $88.

Problems

Some people wanted to get dessert between dim sum and the escape room, which took a lot longer than expected and made me worry that we would not arrive at the escape room in time. Some of us decided to arrive earlier than the rest to stall, but it turned out that the group that came in before us was still in the rooms anyway, so it didn't matter that we were late. The guy running the escape room didn't do a very good job of describing the way it worked, and he didn't tell us after we had already picked rooms that the combination we had picked wasn't an option. I didn't realize that we would have to split up into teams until he said the max capacity of each room was 6, but it ended up working out ok because the harder room got 6 people and the easier one got 5. However, it was still kind of a struggle for everyone to decide which team to be on and which rooms to do. Some people mentioned that they had to leave early or be back on campus by 4, which wouldn't have been a problem except that we started almost half an hour late. The escape rooms themselves were frustrating/annoying at times because they seemed a bit shoddily constructed and the operator had to divide his attention between the two teams, so he wasn't very helpful at times.

Results

It was definitely very lucky that there was a weekday available in the middle of the semester with no school because I don't think many people would have come on a regular weeknight, and that Thomas agreed to move the dim sum event to Monday because without it I'm sure attendance would have been much lower.

The 6-person group in the harder room managed to escape, while the 5-person group in the easier one did not. Overall I think most people had a pretty good time but the difficulty of the puzzles, lack of hints, and poor craftsmanship made it somewhat frustrating and definitely less fun than it could have been. I think escape rooms in general are kind of expensive for not that much reward, and Escape Oakland specifically was not super well-run. Angela said it was a new establishment though, so maybe in the future it will be a better option.

Description

At this event, TBP members and officers were invited to come hang out at Ariel's house. We had a potluck dinner, board games, and video games as well.

Purpose

The purpose of the event was to facilitate bonding/interactions between TBP Officers and members.

Organization

I first asked Ariel which days she would be able to host the event. I then sent an interest form to the members and officers mailing lists that allowed people to vote for which of the days works best for them. After choosing a date, the Publicity committee made a Facebook event in the TBP CA-A group, and I made a spreadsheet for potluck signups. The spreadsheet was sent by email, in the messenger chat, and in the event post. Reminders about the event were also periodically sent by email, messenger, and the Facebook event post with two more reminders being sent the day of the event.

Eric Jacobs also drove Ariel and I to Safeway the night before the event so we could pick up some food.

Cost

Each person paid for the thing they brought to the potluck.

Problems

There were no major problems with the event. Air quality problems in Berkeley at the time may have reduced attendance though. Also it took a lot of publicity and prodding to get people to go/put going on Facebook but I think everyone had a good time.

Results

Overall, I think the event went well and everyone seemed to have a good time.

Description

Played indoor games such as name that theme song, password, and trivia. Houses competed for points.

Purpose

Final competition for houses to compete for points.

Organization

VP met up the day before to plan indoor games. Made new trivia questions, organized a name the theme song playlist on spotify, and made words to play password.

Cost

$338.68 for Racha's.

Problems

The smoke from the fires made it so we had to replan everything last minute. We had to have the event entirely indoors and make exceptions for candidates with asthma/who didn't want to go out in the smoke. Also the room we had booked inside was kind of small for that number of people.

Results

Everyone had a lot of fun with the trivia and name that tune games even though we couldn't. More anime theme songs in the name that theme song game would've been good because it was requested.

Description

This is the last big event before initiation, where candidates turn in the second installment of their fees, submit their creative biographies, and fill out a final feedback form.

We also doubled it up as a study session so that candidates could use it as a makeup requirement. We had snacks as well.

Purpose

Explained in “Description”

Organization

We booked the Wozniak Lounge because it is a big room, and before the event we got a lot of snacks from Trader Joes.

Cost

Approximately 20-30 dollars worth of snacks were purchased.

Problems

At the end of the semester a lot of people still hadn't fulfilled all of the requirements (largely because events were cancelled due to the smoke from the nearby fires). Sometimes it felt that we were being too lenient with letting people use a study session as a make-up requirement.

Results

The event went well. Ariel and I took turns being the person "in charge" (collecting packets and instructing candidates on what to do) while the other VP would talk to candidates and hang out.

Purpose

The purpose of the event is to celebrate the end of the semester.

Problems

The room that we were given did not have a projector or screen, despite us thinking that it would when we made the reservation.

Description

Retreat in American Canyon / Napa area. Since it wasn't a long weekend, we left on Friday afternoon and left on Sunday morning.

Purpose

Officer / member bonding, retreat / semester planning meeting

Organization

Planned events for people to do (wine tours, Six Flags). Organized rides (we needed most alum to drive officers). Booked AirBnB. Brought entertainment (board games / video games). Food planning (activities).

Cost

Total cost: $1894.81

Breakdown: Housing: $903.2 Beverages: $85.83 Food: $340.73 Car/Gas/Toll/Parking: $565.05

Problems

The landlord lived down the street from the AirBnB, so we had to stay quiet, and also make sure not to leave too many cars in the driveway. Also, someone broke the towel rack downstairs – next time, we need to be more careful about property damage. Cleaning up in the morning was also a mess because we moved a lot of furniture. Next time, the first group to arrive needs to take photos of the place so we know how to rearrange. We also had to go back to Berkeley to grab the food that we left – better communication next time about picking up food.

Results

Overall successful in terms of bonding. We weren't able to ask alum for advice about our financial status and needs for new office space because there were some logistical issues, but sorted it out with an advisory meeting later in the semester.

Cost

Food cost: $545.28

Problems

It went pretty smoothly. Need to enforce crowd control a lil more, there was a PhD student who grabbed a packet and was interested in joining. Also a lot of people didn't show up to the meeting – I wanna guess only 2/3 of invitees?

Description

Handed out cookies to students exiting the E7 midterm

Purpose

Make students happy after the crushing defeat of a midterm

Organization

I purchased cookies before the semester started. There were two mostly-full boxes of cookies left over from the previous week, so I used those so they wouldn't be sitting around open in the office until the next batch of midterms. No additional setup or cleanup was required.

Cost

Free for TBP, ~$1 for the cookies used

Problems

Thomas told me the midterm ended at 2pm but it actually ended at 3pm so Garrett and I went an hour early and had to come back later. However, at about 2:50pm there was a sudden influx of candidates at PT1 at the same time that Angela had to leave briefly. Garrett and Vincent were the only officers present and they were occupied there, so I just went to Dwinelle alone to hand out the cookies. I could only man one of the doors by myself, so about half of the students were not offered cookies.

Results

Cookies handed out successfully. There were a few cookies left over, which were ultimately eaten by me and other officers.

Participants

Description

Info session with Oliver Wyman, a consulting company.

Purpose

Promote awareness of Oliver Wyman and its opportunities for students.

Organization

Set-up and clean-up to organize the chairs ~30 min before and after the info session. 5 IndRel members + a few exec were there for set-up and clean-up.

Cost

~$250 for food, reimbursed by Oliver Wyman.

Problems

Had some issues securing a projector but eventually were able to borrow IEEE's (with HKN's as a backup).

Results

Event was more well-attended than expected, thanks to publicity emailing/FB messaging a ton of consulting/business clubs.

Description

First Big Social of the candidate semester. Usually done outside, but high chance of rain pushed us inside.

Purpose

Give candidates a chance to bond with each other and officers, and to kick off the house competition.

Organization

From PTI1, sort candidates into houses by favorite color / spirit animal. Try to balance gender ratio / major. Organize stations (Wikipedia Game, shitty instruments, scattergories, and Pictionary) and ask for volunteers to host stations.

Cost

~100 for food

Problems

Needed to grab keys from Soda beforehand to open Soda classrooms.

Description

E4K contact and sign up with them on their website or via email. Organized an airplane activity where the little kids build an airplane that goes the farthest distance. Kids had a lot of fun. We went over plane dynamics too and how to get them to fly far.

Purpose

Serving the STEM education community starting with engineering for kids!

Organization

Contacted E4K and set up activity. Just back and forth communication with instructions and setting up the event with TBP and advertising it.

Cost

$5 Paper for paper airplanes. Wind dynamics and explanation.

E4K will reimburse up to $25 for activities.

Problems

None, definately a good event! Bring enough matierals, we ran kinda low in the end but just enough.

Results

Description

Meeting in HP Auditorium. Mandatory attendance for candidates. Replacement for not attending GM is an extra service or house event.

Purpose

Introduce committees to candidates, more house bonding, resume workshop

Organization

Asked chairs to prepare a slide describing their committee. VP’s prepared slides about upcoming events, important logistical information, and another house game (Name that Theme Song). Food came from Chinese Express with homecooked rice (which wasn’t worth for the amount of effort put into cooking it tbh).

Cost

$180 ish total for Chinese Express + rice from Costco

Problems

It was actually really short since we didn't have a speaker this semester. Buying time / stalling was a minor issue. Maybe add more to the house game or ask for a longer resume presentation. Attendance was pretty poor as well, maybe blasting an email would have been good.

Results

Maybe half the candidates showed up? Food ran out pretty fast though, we should have ordered more.

Description

The Big Give was an event where TBP solicited donations from March 13th to March 14th. On the day of the Big Give (March 14th) student tabled at Dwinelle Plaza.

Purpose

Raise money for TBP!

Organization

Cost

Set-up of the table was required. However, tabling is not very important for the Big Give.

Problems

Obtaining the donations list is a problem, since we do not know who donated.

Results

We raised money for Tau Beta Pi through the Berkeley Big Give fundraising event!

Purpose

Organization

Cost

Problems

Verifying the donations of candidates to get service events. I was able to get a list by emailing the guy in charge of it. We could have been higher on the leaderboard if all our donations had been in increments of $10 (there was one $500 donation).

Description

Teaching high schoolers about trusses and building trusses out of paper and string. Students were in groups of 4 for this project. Some were more engaged than others, but overall 4 per group seemed to work well for most groups.

Purpose

STEM outreach to local high school students

Organization

2 SWE members helped out in each workshop in addition to the TBP officers and candidate. There was 10 minutes in between each workshop to cleanup the tables and setup for the next group of students.

Cost

$33 reimbursed by SWE

Problems

not enough candidates signed up to participate, not enough scissors and hole punches to go around for all of the groups. More pencils necessary to speed up the rolling up of the longerons and battens.

Results

Most of the groups were able to finish, but the execution was mostly sloppy. Most groups didn't tie the string tightly enough to provide structural support.

Description

Contact the Rose Garden. Show up to volunteer time to help clean it up. Pretty simple event overall.

Purpose

To serve the community of Berkeley by beautifying the rose garden, as well as doing it together as a TBP group, getting to know one another.

Organization

Organization is just emailing and setting up. nothing to big here. Just another normal TBP event

Cost

Free, just the set up time involved to make sure the event occurs and going to it.

Problems

Not much really, though I would not strongly recommend this event in the future. More details to be explained below.

Results

Overall a pretty simple and okay event. Might be better if we had more meaningful events rather than just showing up and cleaning a garden, but definitely this event still fulfills the goal of service. Wish more people showed up too, but it is kind of expected for an event like this early in the year.

Description

First House Comp of the semester! Usually is a build event, followed by food.

Purpose

Encourage bonding among candidates, and between candidates & officers. Plus there's some cool build events.

Organization

Needed to set up a build event – we used the one that we did at SWE, which turned out to be a disaster since our materials were broken and the slides were confusing. Do not recommend doing again. We cut short the build time to do other activities because having build events for two hours is too much, so we planned a charades competition and filled out March Madness brackets.

Cost

none, materials were carried over from SWE Mini-U, and food was sponsored by CapGemini.

Problems

The build event was terrible – the slides were confusing in terms of how to build the structure, and the detailed directions didn't give a lot of room for creativity. Also, most of the materials were broken or missing, so there really wasn't much to work with. Poor planning on our part, but also something that we need to fix for next time. March Madness probably shouldn't be done again, I feel like most people don't have an opinion on sports so it took a long time for them to guess who would come out on top.

Results

Seemed alright, we improvised our planned schedule because we didn't want to force the candidates to keep building something that was so poorly organized. Need a more fleshed out build project with more creativity elements for next time.

Description

Publicity tabled at Sproul on Cal Day to advertise E98, the TBP DeCal for freshman engineering students.

Purpose

Advertise E98.

Organization

Set-up involved making a flyer, getting it printed, and cutting the flyers out. On the day of the event we just had to come with our banners (drape-over banner and standing banner) to Sproul and check-in.

Cost

Around $40 for the flyers.

Problems

We should have tabled in the engineering area (through ESS) instead of Sproul. It's possible we missed the emails about tabling in the engineering campus due to emails being down.

Results

Lots of flyers were handed out. About 12 or so students filled out a form so that we can contact them in the fall semester.

Participants

Description

Another chance of getting points && another bonding opportunity for the houses! Since BS1 was indoors, we wanted this time to have outdoors activities.

Purpose

more bonding + more interactions with the community :')

Organization

We originally planned to do a scavenger hunt and then play dodgeball. Print out 4 copies of the scavenger hunt beforehand so each house can keep a copy with them, and bring the dodgeballs from the office to wherever you're playing (we wanted to use the field outside Evans, near Memorial Glade)

Cost

~$232 for catered La Burrita

Problems

Not that many people showed up because there was a really big turnout to Big Social 1, so we ended up skipping dodgeball and just playing Jackbox Party Pack 2 (Fibbage and Quiplash).

Results

Seemed like people had a good time, the candidates had an opportunity to interact with officers in a closer way.

Description

We met for Boba at Southside ShareTea (RareTea), and sat and talked between the two houses. Around 7, we decided to go get food somewhere southside, but most people peeled off before we could choose. Two people got Sheng Kee and everyone dispersed by around 7:20.

Purpose

Facilitate bonding between Bodi and Skylos houses, allow candidates to fill out their candidate quiz.

Organization

No set up, just meet, buy Boba, and talk.

Cost

Individualized, approximately $4-5 per person, paid by each person.

Problems

Originally planned for Cory ShareTea, but it closes at 6, so we moved it. Didn't have plan to get dinner, so it was made up on the spot.

Results

We had good turnout and at least 2 people were able to finish their candidate quiz, and other made new interhouse friends.

Description

Typical bent polishing – turning in candidate quiz, catching up on requirements, polishing the brass.

Purpose

Serves as a checkpoint for candidates to see whether they’re on track for initiation. Also a good opportunity to talk to officers and catch up on officer challenges etc

Organization

Typical Safeway run for bagels, donuts, and juice. Needed to bring candidate shirts to the event.

Cost

~30

Problems

It was like 80 degrees that day so we all burned but that's o k a y :^) would consider setting up the table near mclaughlin instead and have candidates go up the stairs to polish, or ask ess for an ez up (or buy one ourselves)

Results

More people cam to this one because then they'd have more time to do their requirements so turnout was better than last time.

Description

This event was a high school robotics competition organized and hosted by Pioneers in Engineering.

Purpose

The purpose of this event was to give high school students the opportunity to learn about robotics and engineering in general in a fun, competitive environment.

Organization

TBP was not responsible for organizing or running this event. Sixteen members/candidates from TBP volunteered at the event.

Cost

TBP was not responsible for any of the costs associated with this event, as we did not organize it.

Problems

While the members of Pioneers in Engineering were welcoming to volunteers from TBP, they didn't really need our assistance. As a result, volunteers from TBP did not have much to do, and spent most of the time watching.

Results

While the contribution from TBP were small, the overall event seemed to be a success, in that it was well organized, and the high schoolers were engaged and having fun.

Description

Culmination of the house competition. Last opportunity to bond and compete with all houses present.

Purpose

Last opportunity to get house events in + house bonding + tying up loose ends in the house competition. After this event, the winner of the house competition is determined.

Organization

We did a new event this semester – a puzzlehunt! Ideally this should have been original puzzles but we didn't have time to make our own. We pulled some puzzles online and tried to enforce the rule that there was no internet, but we ended up not being able to enforce it very well, and one house ended up cheating :(

Cost

~$380 for Racha's + soda

Problems

We need to make our own puzzles! Take some puzzle formats, and adjust them so that we have our own original solutions. Also, we tried to stagger the puzzles so that people would always have something to do, but the order that we release the puzzles matters – some puzzles are a lot more involved than others.

Results

I think if we had unique puzzles it would have gone a lot better.

Description

Ceremony to initiate the candidates at the end of the semester.

Purpose

Formally initiate candidates into the organization, as per Nationals policy.

Organization

Initiation roles assigned a couple of weeks before initiation, setup (!!!! book the room two hours before the event so you have plenty of time to set up, we probably need more candles / maybe buy electric candles). There are two plastic totes of initiation gear + the lightbox since things have been consolidated! Print out a roster of candidates by last name so initiation can run smoother. Also put together the roll book with a list of candidates by last name.

Cost

0 since all of our materials are here already, but we might need more materials next semester

Problems

There was a crazy extreme leftist professor (Brian A. Barsky) who tried to shut down the initiation because he thought we were a frat and that we were hazing our candidates (pretty much all because I told the candidates sternly not to talk). He thought I was stifling their “free speech” and that this wasn’t representative of the “higher educational institution” and that there was a lack of “critical thinking” and the candidates were “rats in a lab.” He brought the EECS department chair (James Demmel) and he helped us diffuse the situation, but Brian was still really intent on shutting down the initiation and causing a scene. James mentioned that sometimes his department has professors that act this way, so I think this is a one-off thing.

Results

Candidates thought the whole Brian thing was staged so I guess it blew over alright, but setting up early was a really good move.
