Let's try it—Work Experience

- Get out your Résumé
- Pair up
- Decide whose Résumé you will examine. The partner will be the "coach."
- Select one line in the work experience section.
- Coach is to ask for the benefits. Student is to estimate the dollar value.
- Ask it repeatedly, go for the best numbers you can find.

To: Antony Sam Frances Peter James <antonymsfra@mail.usf.edu>

The biggest takeaways from the resume showcase your value:

- Spend 1% on the formatting and the rest of the time on content
- Know your audience- google the employer or network to find out about the company
- you have about 10 seconds to capture the readers attention
- STARL
- No templates, crazy fonts, and don't include any references
- get input and do what is best for you
- Use action verbs!

Date Attended: 3/6/18

Resume - Showcase Your True Value! Reflection

In this workshop I was able to take away a lot about resumes which I have not considered before. I have had numerous questions about formatting in the past, so I was quite excited to get another opinion from someone who works on Resumes professionally for the university. In this time, I learned a little about how to add some creativity to the resume in order to make it stand out, and how to come to terms with creating an objective statement. Everyone who attended was able to take away a physical packet with information covered in this session which I will definitely be looking on the next time I am updating my resume. It was very helpful to be in a room with people all wondering the same questions, as I have been to the career centers office on campus before to get some one-on-one assistance with my resume before and still left feeling a little lost and confused.
