Tau Beta Pi
Chapter Project Report

Texas Alpha Chapter
Fall 2017 to Spring 2018
Executive Summary

The Tau Beta Pi Texas Alpha Chapter at the University of Texas at Austin initiated 40 Tau Beta Pi candidates into our chapter during the 2017-2018 academic year. These members showed integrity and excellence in engineering through the completion of fifteen candidate requirements in tandem with maintenance of outstanding scholastic and extracurricular achievements. Some of those requirements include attending participating in five chapter social events, completing six hours of community service with the chapter, contributing three hours to internal chapter activities like fundraising, and attending at least one fireside hosted by a distinguished faculty member in the Cockrell School of Engineering. This chapter report contains a summary of all 122 events sponsored by our chapter that our candidates participated in.

Our diligent, semester long initiation process is designed to insure that our candidates are honorable engineers and not just high-GPA students. The social events provide opportunities for our candidates to develop interdepartmental connections with other high-achieving Cockrell School of Engineering students in the Texas Alpha chapter. Firesides allowed those candidates to connect with, glean valuable insights from and obtain career advice from professors outside a traditional academic setting.

Furthermore, our most committed, stressed, and important requirement is the fulfillment of at least nine hours of community service. Although six hours does not seem like a lot, it can become a challenge as our candidates learn to balance TBP activities and their engineering course load during the initiation process. The goal of the community service hours is to motivate our candidates to help the community we all live in, whether it is helping to feed and interact with homeless people, cleaning up our local parks, or tutoring middle schoolers in STEM subjects. In addition, all candidates are broken into teams to set up their own community service projects. Through these teams, the candidates develop personal relationships with engineering students from diverse backgrounds while working together to improve the greater Austin area community. As evidenced from the events put together during both the fall and spring semester, our chapter can already see improvements in our service requirement. In total, Texas Alpha candidates were supposed to complete 512 hours of community service hours, instead they put in more than 650 hours towards the improvement of the Austin community, a good sign that some of our candidates will continue to volunteer.

A huge target for the Texas Alpha chapter is education through the K-12 initiative. Every year, Texas Alpha gets involved with Explore UT, a day where K-12 students arrive from across the state to explore the UT Austin campus, and Introduce a Girl to Engineering Day, where K-12 girls come to the Cockrell School of Engineering to participate in engineering-related games and activities to develop their interest in pursuing STEM subjects in college. During these events, Texas Alpha has built a trebuchet, a machine used in medieval times, to let the kids launch water balloons and learn about projectile physics. We get to teach history by explaining the medieval uses of the trebuchet, physics by showing how a lever and a counterweight can fling an object in the air, and how much fun it can be to learn about both!

Texas Alpha also likes to keep traditions, just like the University of Texas at Austin does. This year we continued to host the Texas Alpha Alumni Tailgate. The Alumni Tailgate, which occurred this year during the Texas vs. San Jose State football game, is not just an opportunity to have a fun time while watching the game, but also to bring Texas Alpha alumni together. By playing some field games like volleyball and cornhole, and eating great barbeque, everyone gets to interact with one another, and share stories and advice.

As we move into the chapter’s second century of existence, Texas Alpha strives to promote integrity and excellence in engineering by continuing to have a strict and rigorous initiation process. At the same time, we also try to increase active involvement by giving incentives to continue to participate in TBP events even after initiation. This year, we recognized several active Texas Alpha members who went above and beyond to contribute to the chapter’s social and service activities throughout both semesters. As we move into the chapter’s 2nd century, our officer team and active members will continue to provide an inclusive environment for our membership to develop connections, build their professional experience and improve the local community through community service.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description: This was the second general meeting of the semester. This general meeting was “dress-up day”, where each team dressed up according to the team theme (Disney) and their respective teams (Mulan, Hercules, Toy Story, Pirates of the Caribbean, Lion King, and Monster's Inc.). After serving food, we made our general announcements of upcoming events/deadlines. Next was team presentations, where each team came up to the front, each member introduced themselves, and the team announced their team service project. Afterwards, we finished our general TBP announcements portion with the upcoming events. The last 15 minutes were dedicated to a panel of 3 TBP alumni, from the Central Texas Alumni Chapter, who are all now in industry and came to share their post-college wisdom.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP: The purpose of the General Meetings is to keep active members and candidates informed and foster relationships between the members. These meetings also serve to introduce the attendees to a career or education path and cultivate a high standard of professional interest.

III. Organization & Administration: This event was organized by TBP with alumni from the Central Texas Alumni Chapter in attendance.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements: Food was provided by TBP TXA for those in attendance.

V. Special Problems:

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results: The third general meeting was a little hectic at some points. Food service began late, which set the entire schedule behind. Also, due to the large number of attendees, the transition time between teams coming up to present was longer than we’d like. Overall though, it worked out fine, since this was a more casual meeting. The alumni panel were fantastic, and everyone enjoyed having them.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description: This was the fifth and final general meeting of the semester. For Candidates, all points/hours/firesides were due right before the general meeting, along with their completed sig blocks and bents. Polished bents were collected right at the beginning of the meeting, and the unsatisfactory ones were returned at the end of the meeting. The first half of the meeting was spent on important announcements and information about important events, such as initiation, elections, and banquet. We had a little bit of extra time, during which members participated in a few ice breakers. Phillips 66 presented during the second half of the meeting about their company, culture, benefits, and intern program.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP: The purpose of the General Meetings is to keep active members and candidates informed and foster relationships between the members. These meetings also serve to introduce the attendees to a career or education path and cultivate a high standard of professional interest.

III. Organization & Administration: This event was organized by TBP with representatives from Phillips 66 in attendance.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements: Food was provided by TBP TXA for those in attendance.

V. Special Problems:

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results: The fifth general meeting was a success! All Candidates were able to turn in their bents in a timely manner, and the meeting ran on-time and smoothly. There was just enough food for everyone, and everyone enjoyed the ice breakers and the speaker’s presentation.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
We had a start-of-year meeting to inform our members about the upcoming events and rules changes to TBP.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
We informed the members of new requirements to continuing to be part of the active Tau Beta Pi, Texas Alpha community, as well as informed them of changes to the organization and the candidacy process. This was part of the due diligence of informing members of changes and building a sense of community within the organization by demonstrating the number of actives involved.

III. Organization & Administration:
The meeting was organized by the VP Internal the the President, who both spoke. A plate of vegetables was given, but not a full meal. The presentation was also created by the organizers. Afterward, members headed to the first active social.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
The total cost was about $50 for the refreshments for 92 people.

V. Special Problems:
We almost ran out of space as twice as many people as expected showed up.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
This was a great way to start the year, and it really helped build a sense of how large and active the TBP community could be.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements: Food was provided by TBP TXA for those in attendance.

I. General Description: This was our final general meeting of the semester. Everything went smoothly, and we were able to start on time. We started off with general announcements of upcoming events, such as banquet and elections and initiation. We then moved onto a fun icebreaker to get the crowd moving. After the presentation, we wrapped up with upcoming events and then dismissed our members.

I. General Description:
Members dined at Uncle Julio’s in downtown Austin to celebrate the end of the candidacy and semester. Queso, a Fajita bar, and chocolate pinatas were served. A slideshow presentation was presented by the departing officer team, which included 1) Photos taken throughout the semester, 2) best of awards, 3) superlatives, and 4) senior sendoffs.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
Brought together the TBP community to celebrate and end to a great semester. This builds comradery and encourages future networking with other Tau Beta Pi members. Also, this recognizes and encourages a high level of commitment to TBP and shows we value our members.

III. Organization & Administration:
The events was organized by the Vice President Operations Desi Friesenhahn, with assistance from the President Ethan Freeburg and Social Coordinator Mick Yoon. Historian Catherine Xu helped with set-up, slideshow and took pictures.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
Attendees did not have to bring anything.
Food and Space Reservation: $1824
Sound Equipment: $95
Total: $1919

V. Special Problems:
We were not given the correct cords for the rental equipment, and they initially didn’t have the size screen they said they would, so we had to ask around to find better ones. The room itself was not as ideal to a presentation because it was very long, but since we didn’t take up the whole space it worked out okay.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
People generally seemed to enjoy banquet and the food. They were very excited for the chocolate pinatas. We had a Chevron rep come and she said she enjoyed the superlatives. Overall, banquet was a success.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:

Tau Beta Pi electees volunteered at Healing with Horses Ranch located in Manor, TX - a 20 minute drive from campus. The ranch serves as a therapeutic centre for emotionally and physically disabled members of the Austin/Manor/Round Rock community. To help with their ranch renovation project, TBP volunteers helped take down the old, rusty wire fences and planned to build wood fences as a replacement. Meet up for the event was at the Littlefield Fountain (on campus) at 8:15am and drop off was at same spot after the event at about 12:30pm.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:

In participating in this event, the objective is to create an avenue whereby electees can add value to the community around them. By participating in some hands-on volunteering, electees can develop the virtue of being selfless. It also emphasizes the importance Tau Beta Pi places on community service and selfless attitude.

III. Organization & Administration:

This event was planned in collaboration with Healing with Horses Ranch (a charity organization)

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:

One of the participants volunteered to drive to the ranch and back.

V. Special Problems:

Volunteers ran out of time after pulling down the fences and were unable to put up the new wooden fences. This was because there were few cutting tools compared to the number of volunteers. Thus, taking down the barbed wires became an overly time-consuming task.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:

Although there was not enough time to put up new fences, the management of the ranch were extremely grateful. The volunteers also enjoyed the whole experience as it was hands-on and they were able to carry out some engineering manoeuvres. The event ended right on time and participants were dropped off as convenient locations.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
Inside Books Project (IBP) is a volunteer community service organization in Austin that sends free books and educational materials to prisoners in Texas. Letters from prisoners are replied with a brief note and a package of books that discuss topics the inmates are interested in. TBP volunteers helped with replying letters and searching the IBP library for books that can be included in the package for every inmate. Meet up for the event was at the Littlefield Fountain (on campus) at 6:45pm and drop off was at the same spot after the event at about 11:30pm.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
Two of the participants volunteered to drive to the venue in East Austin and back.

V. Special Problems:

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
Volunteers enjoyed the event and the host organization was also glad we could stop by and help. In the four hours volunteering, TBP members replied about 24 letters and gave out close to 50 books, magazines, articles, etc. that would help the inmates. An issue with the event was the fact that finding an ideal book to respond the letter with took time. Volunteers found the book search rather arduous relative to the actual act of writing responses to the letters.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
Tau Beta Pi candidates volunteered at UT SUREWalk program from 8:30 pm to 11:30 pm. Volunteers’ primary role was to accompany SUREWalk staff as they walk/drive UT students from campus to their apartments/meeting venues within campus.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
The goal of this event was to promote community service and selflessness among TBP electees and active. The participants stayed up late and sacrificed their time just to ensure safety of fellow students on campus.

III. Organization & Administration:
Not organized in conjunction with another group.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
None.

V. Special Problems:
None

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
Participants showed up on time to the meetup location and were able to start the shift upon arrival. However, unbeknownst to us, SUREWalk had modified the shifts to start an hour earlier so, we were technically late and in violation of their policy. Future service coordinator(s) should note that SUREWalk are extremely strict with their policies. The policies should be read very carefully before registering to volunteer. Overall, participants walked about 20 students during the 3 hour shift and while not walking, interacted with fellow TBP electees and the organizing officer.

Number of persons who participated in this project
(List of names is included below.)

Members: 4/173
Electees: 15/44

Average number of hours per person
Organizing: 1
Participating: 2

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
Dr. Fred Beach from UT Energy Institute and Department of Chemical Engineering joined the candidates and active members for a casual dinner chat. He started off by talking about his background, childhood, education, experiences in the Navy for 20 years, graduate school, and academia. Dr. Beach is a very charismatic lecturer and passionate speaker, and captivated the attendees with so many stories he had to share. In the second hour, the attendees asked very specific questions at times regarding energy policies in the U.S., energy crisis, global warming, situations in different countries, and many other energy-related and non-related topics.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
Fireside chat fosters a very open, honest, and inspiring environment. The members are free to ask away any questions they have for a professor, and the professor in return provides insightful advices. The interactions we usually experience in these fireside chats are completely different from the typical professor-student interactions in classrooms.

III. Organization & Administration:
Not organized in conjunction with another group.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
Food from Mandola’s Italian was provided by TBP TXA for those in attendance.

V. Special Problems:
BME 3.206 conference room requires a BME major to book the room.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
Although the event was designed to last for an hour, Dr. Beach was willing to stay as long as the attendees had questions. The event ended up lasting for 2 hours, an hour extra than originally planned. This was an extremely insightful fireside chat; very different from usual casual chat. We delved into deep talks, debated on controversial topics, and shared opinions in a very productive and highly intellectual manner.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
This was a fireside chat that is unlike any other—the members of TBP got to meet the architect who designed Austin-Bergstrom International Airport, Austin Convention Center, and shaped downtown Austin. Professor Larry Speck calls himself an "architecture junkie," and he is an architect's architect. He grew up in a small town in Texas, received Bachelor's and Master's degree from MIT, and served as a dean of the School of Architecture at UT. Now, he has a nationally known practice as a professor and as the principal of Austin-based architecture and engineering firm. The attendees learned more about his life, about his work that ranges from designing FBI Regional Headquarter to urban planning. He graciously invited us to his penthouse (that he designed) in downtown Austin that accommodated 50 people.
II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
An engineering-wide tailgate was co-hosted by TBP and SEC at Turtle Pond to provide tons of fun and delicious food to all engineers, including alumni. TBP was in charge of food for this event and served burgers and hotdogs. The event has high turnout and everyone had fun.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
The purpose of this event is to provide an opportunity for all engineers to network with each other and celebrate the football game (Texas Longhorns vs. San Jose State Spartans) together. By co-hosting this event with SEC, TBP got its own name out too.

III. Organization & Administration:
The games and activities were planned by SEC. TBP was in charge of grilling and serving food.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
The total cost for the food is $332.48, including veggies, burger patties, burger buns, hotdog buns, and drinks.

V. Special Problems:

Project name: Burger Burn #1

Date(s) of Project: 10/6/2017

Project area: University/College

Number of persons who participated in this project
(List of names is included below.)

Average number of hours per person

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
We ran our traditional fundraising event: The Burger Burn. During this event, we set up a grill, a tent, and several tables in front of our engineering buildings. We then cooked beef burgers, veggie burgers, and hot dogs and sold these items, along with chips and drinks, to students and faculty that passed by during lunch hours.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
This event has been our main source of fundraising for the Texas Alpha chapter. We put the profits from our Burger Burns towards our Scholarship Endowment Fund and fund our other chapter events including socials, service events, and professional development events.

III. Organization & Administration:
This event was organized in conjunction with the Fire Safety, who approved our use of a propane grill to cook our food. The event was also organized in conjunction with Student Activities, who allowed us to reserve the space necessary to hold the event, and Environmental Health and Safety, who made sure that we were following the necessary codes and restrictions.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
All food and non-food items were purchased from Sam’s Club. We required all officers to help for at least an hour for each Burger Burn, and we encouraged candidates and actives to help as well in an effort to fulfill point requirements for the semester.

V. Special Problems:
In the second hour of the burger burn, personnel from Environmental Health and Safety shut down our operation citing our lack of a “hand-washing station” as dictated by new protocols. An impromptu hand-washing station was thrown together in order to salvage the operation.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
This was the first of five Burger Burns planned for the semester. Our net profits were about $150, which is a little low when we look at our history for the previous year where most burger burns made profits in the $200-$300 range. However, the one hour of in-operation due to EHS shutdown must be taken into account. The use of the Square card reader has been very helpful because it allowed us to serve food to people who only had credit or debit card as a method of payment. Many customers made purchases through Venmo as it is very convenient for college student to purchase food with money through their mobile devices.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
We ran our traditional fundraising event: The Burger Burn. During this event, we set up a grill, a tent, and several tables in front of our engineering buildings. We then cooked beef burgers, veggie burgers, and hot dogs and sold these items, along with chips and drinks, to students and faculty that passed by during lunch hours.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
This event has been our main source of fundraising for the Texas Alpha chapter. We put the profits from our Burger Burns towards our Scholarship Endowment Fund and fund our other chapter events including socials, service events, and professional development events.

III. Organization & Administration:
This event was organized in conjunction with the Fire Safety, who approved our use of a propane grill to cook our food. The event was also organized in conjunction with Student Activities, who allowed us to reserve the space necessary to hold the event, and Environmental Health and Safety, who made sure that we were following the necessary codes and restrictions.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
All food and non-food items were purchased from Sam’s Club. We required all officers to help for at least an hour for each Burger Burn, and we encouraged candidates and actives to help as well in an effort to fulfill point requirements for the semester.

V. Special Problems:
None!

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
This was the final Burger Burn planned for the semester. Our net profits have not been calculated yet, but it is expected to be well over $200. The use of the Square card reader has been very helpful because it allowed us to serve food to people who only had credit or debit card as a method of payment. Many customers made purchases through Venmo as it is very convenient for college students to purchase food with money through their mobile devices.

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
We ran our traditional fundraising event - the Burger Burn. For the event, we grilled and sold food to students and faculty passing by the engineering buildings. Items sold include hamburgers, cheeseburgers, veggie burgers, hot dogs, Ms. Vickies chips, and various drinks. All burgers and hotdogs were served with a tomatoes, lettuce, onions, ketchup, mustard, pickles, and/or relish. Both actives and officers participated in grilling, serving, set-up, and clean-up.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
The Burger Burn is our most used and characteristic fundraising event. The goal was to raise money for our chapter. We put the profits from our Burger Burns towards our Scholarship Endowment Fund and other chapter events including socials, service events, and professional development events.

III. Organization & Administration:
The event was organized under the approval of the University services EHS and student activities, as well as under Roosevelt Easley, a fire safety specialist. 3 tables and a tent were borrowed from ASME.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
Food and equipment (burners, plates, trays, napkins, seasoning, etc.) for the burger burn was bought at Sam’s Club. Ice and a water container were bought at HEB. No one was required to volunteer, but having we encouraged members to come and help. Officers were required to help out during time slots void of volunteers and time slots the fundraising coordinator could not make.

V. Special Problems:
Had Excess of food; ended up throwing approximately half of the tomatoes away, ~13 beef patties, and some onions. 3 veggie patties, several tomatoes, and a few beef patties were donated. The rest of the remaining stock was stored in a freezer for future use.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
This was the first Burger Burn planned for the semester. Overall, the event went as expected, as all operations were conducted according to our normal practices. Our profits have not been calculated yet, as our system of accounting has yet to be finalized. The revenues were above average for our first Burger Burn of the semester, but much of the long-term supplies were in need of restocking for this event. Nevertheless, by all common accounting practices, a profit was generated. Upon review, it is suspected that many aspects could be tweaked for better results.

Project name: Bake Sale #1

Average number of hours per person

DESCRIPTION:

I. General Description:
We attempted our first bake sale, advertising and selling cheesecake, brownies, and cheesecake bars to students and staff passing by the engineering buildings. Unlike traditional bake sales, the goods were all baked together under supervision of an officer. The goods were sold for profit as opposed to flat revenue, as most bake sales are. Furthermore, goods were baked mostly from scratch.

II. Purpose & Relationship to Objectives of TBP:
The goal of the event is to raise some money for TBP as a proof of concept. This sale was conducted mainly to assess the viability of a new fundraising event.

III. Organization & Administration:
The event was organized under the approval of student activities. A table was borrowed from ASME.

IV. Cost & Personnel Requirements:
Baked goods were purchased from H-E-B. The total cost of the ingredients totaled about $40.

V. Special Problems: Bees are attracted by baked goods. Selling times not optimized.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
The event was mildly successful. The cheesecake bars and brownies sold out, but the cheesecake did not sell well. Although significant revenue was generated, resulting in approximately 80% profit, it was predicted that upsizing would result in lower yield. Given the work needed to run the event, it was decided that standalone bake sales would not be continued this semester.

VI. Over-all Evaluation/Results:
This was the second Burger Burn planned for the semester. Overall, the event was relatively successful; however we started late and ran out of food earlier than anticipated. Some items did not sell super well due to miscommunication. This was one of the highest revenues ever recorded. Events of similar scale are expected to happen once or twice a semester from here on.
